Masayuki Koorida: Sculpture

An extensive survey of work by Japanese artist Masayuki Koorida in his first major exhibition in the United States, this show includes large scale works in granite and marble as well as small playful works in stainless steel and cast acrylic, and new drawings. His sculptures, which are often inspired by nature, are as much serious works as they are engaging and inviting of viewer interaction.

(On display – through March 17, 2019)
